EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }
SECRETARY'S OFFICE, Dec. 6, 1825. }

The Secretary of state agreeably to a requisition of the House of Representatives herewith furnishes the number of copies of the laws required. It will be remembered that by a law of the last session of the General Assembly, the Secretary of state was required to distribute all the printed copies of the journals of the last session, save ten, which number he was required to preserve in his office, and that number he herewith furnishes as required.

Respectfully, &c.

WILLIAM W. WICK.

The Hon. the SPEAKER of the House of Rep.

Mr. Speaker also laid before the House the following communication from the Secretary of State, to wit:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }
SECRETARY'S OFFICE, Dec. 1825. }The Hon. the Speaker of the House of Representatives,

SIR,—Herewith is transmitted agreeably to law a certified statement exhibiting the whole number of polls returned from each county in the State, together with the number of paupers, insane persons, and persons exempt from a poll tax, and the number of coloured persons, so far as the same appears from documents on file in my office.

It may be well to add that no return of any kind has been received from the county of Clay—that no return of persons exempt from a poll tax has been received from many counties—and that certain unofficial statements have been received from the Clerks of several circuit courts, from which it appears that there are in the county of Wayne thirty-three persons of colour who are included in the exhibit of the taxable inhabitants of that county—in the county of Knox, forty-five persons of colour included in like manner—that a very considerable mistake occurs in the exhibit of the number of taxable inhabitants in the county of Greene, owing to the assessor having charged non-resident land holders with a poll tax—that in the county of Marion the collector has collected a poll tax from sixty-seven free white male inhabitants who were by some mistake or negligence of the lister not included in his statement to the Auditor, and are consequently not included in the exhibit, and that the exhibit of the number of taxable inhabitants in the county of Franklin is immaterially erroneous. It is alleged by the clerk of the circuit court of Fayette county that there are in that county as many as two hundred persons exempt from a poll tax, or who were neglected to be noticed on the assessors books. The documents from which these facts are ascertained, or in which they are supposed not being of that character contemplated by the law in pursuance of which the exhibit herewith communicated is made, of course, are not noticed therein, but remain subject to the order of either House of the General Assembly.

I have the honour to be, very Respectfully, yours, &c.

WILLIAM W. WICK.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }

When the Governor came in, attended by the joint committee appointed to wait upon him, and in the presence of both houses, delivered the following Message:

Gentlemen of the Senate, and of the House of Representatives,

With a lively and grateful sense, let us first acknowledge the Supreme goodness of an Almighty Providence for the numerous instances in which he has peculiarly favoured our Land.

Permit me to embrace this opportunity to congratulate you upon the prosperous situation of our country, and the favourable auspices under which you have assembled. Our common country is in the full enjoyment of peace and that portion of prosperity and happiness which our liberal institutions are calculated to ensure; the productions of our soil have ensured the warmest hopes of the agriculturalist; our citizens during the past year have generally enjoyed an unusual portion of health; the accession to the population of our state during the past season by means of emigration has exceeded all former example; the resources of the state are gradually developing, and our finances are improving with a rapidity that answers our most sanguine expectations. But while we indulge ourselves in a gratifying review of the past and in a pleasing contemplation of our present and future situation, let us not forget that unfeigned thankfulness and gratitude are continually due to "Him" from whom all blessings flow for these signal manifestations of his divine and beneficent regard.

Although the fertility of our soil and the variety of its productions, aided by the industry and economy of our citizens, after supplying an abundance for a rapidly increasing population, and placing all above the fear of want, furnish a large surplus of produce for market, yet the uncertainty of our only attainable market and the difficulties to be surmounted, and expense to be incurred, by a large portion of our citizens in reaching that market, prevent them from realizing those advantages which their situation and circumstances would otherwise command, and operate as a dead weight upon the industry and enterprise of the State.

For a long period previous to the late war, the continued struggle for power in Europe, called immense numbers of their hands from the plough to fill their armies. Agriculture was neglected, whole countries were overrun, and the people as well as the armies were in a measure compelled to look to the United States for a considerable portion of their subsistence. American produce found a ready market in every port in Europe, and the high prices which it commanded, enabled the Farmer in every part of the country to incur the expense of a difficult and tedious transportation, and yet to realize a handsome profit upon his labour. Nor was this prosperous state of affairs materially changed by the commencement of the late war, with Great Britain. In consequence of the war, large disbursements of public money were made by the General Government in every part of the country; a general rage for speculation was excited—numerous banks, with a fictitious capital were established; immense issues of paper were made and the circulating medium of the country was increased four fold in the course of two or three years. A natural consequence of this great increase of what was then deemed equivalent to money, was that a fictitious value was placed upon labour, and every species of property; the estimate upon every thing was in reality a deception—a specious fraud upon the world; money, as it was then called, was easily acquired, and the people too generally, and too easily indulged in visionary dreams of wealth and splendour.

But this state of things could not last: the general pacification of the old world, and the consequent disbandment of their numerous armies again tenanted their long uncultivated fields; agriculture was so far encouraged, that every nation on the continent produced an ample supply of the necessaries of life, for their own consumption, and our American produce, could no longer find a market in that hemisphere. About this time that the nations of the East assumed their pacific attitude, peace was concluded between this country and great Britain; the extraordinary flow of money from our treasury was discontinued; our army was reduced; the newly created banks, began to fail; —specie disappeared—the fictitious circulating medium of the country became trash in the hands of the people—wages and every species of property suffered an unprecedented depression in their value, and the industry of the country suffered a shock, from which in many places it has not yet recovered. The evils and embarrassments too, of this sudden change were more severely felt in the grain growing states, than in the South; as the planter has still been enabled to find a market for his cotton, sugar and tobacco.

To find a remedy for the pressure which operated so severely upon the agriculturist, in consequence of this sudden depression in the market, has occupied the attention and called forth the exertions of the best talents of our country; and the remedies that have been adopted and pursued with so much success in other states, may advantageously be referred to, in considering of the means to be adopted for the amelioration of the condition of our own citizens.

In some of the states, a part of the capital which had formerly been successfully employed in commercial enterprise, has been employed in manufacturing establishments, by which large numbers have been withdrawn from the pursuits of husbandry and a home market created for a great portion of the surplus produce of the Farmer.

In other states, in addition to the establishment of manufactories, large portions of the dormant capital of the country which had been withdrawn from mercantile pursuits, now no longer profitable, has been called forth and put into active circulation among the people in works of internal improvement. In many of the states these remedies have been completely effectual; the cry of "hard times" is no longer heard and a new impulse has been given, and new resources have been opened, to the industry and enterprise of the citizens.

The state of Ohio having become sensible of the advantages to be derived from the prosecution of a system of internal improvement has recently commenced the construction of two Canals, one of which is to open a communication between the river Ohio and Lake Erie. By this enterprise her citizens will be at once benefited, by the expenditure among them of large sums of money, furnished by Eastern capitalists. Employment will be found for large bodies of her citizens, who have heretofore been unprofitably engaged in the cultivation of the soil; a new and advantageous market will be opened for the surplus produce of the country, and a stupendous public work will be completed, which will be a permanent source of revenue to the state; besides leaving upon the pages of American history an instructive and illustrious demonstration of the energy and public spirit, of a free and infant republic.

This taken in connexion with the great artificial channel in New York, which the thunder of a thousand pieces of artillery has just announced as finished, cannot fail to give the North an advantage over the tropical climes.

The citizens of Indiana are still laboring under the difficulties produced by the causes to which I have alluded: and their relative situation with regard to markets, and the difficulties to be encountered, and the expense to be incurred in reaching their only approachable market, fluctuating and uncertain as it is, afford but small inducements to individual exertion and enterprise, as yet, in comparison with the inducements and facilities, that are presented in some of our sister states, where the languishing industry of the country has been revived, by the prosecution of public works, to a successful issue.

Let us for a moment cast our eyes on a map of our own state, and examine the natural facilities for improvement, which are there obviously and impressively presented to view. The Wabash is a stream of great length: It runs through some of the most fertile portions of the state, and with the exception of the rapids near the mouth of white river, is deemed navigable for steam boats, during most of the seasons as far up as the mouth of the Tippacanoë: But these falls render the navigation of the river impracticable for a large portion of the year. This obstruction is situated upon that part of the river which forms the common boundary between this State and Illinois; and from a correspondence which I have had with the Governor of that state, I have the satisfaction to inform you, that he tenders us every assurance, that the state of Illinois is willing to co-operate with this state in any measure that can be agreed upon, to remove this impediment in the stream.

The navigable parts of the Wabash and the Maumee of the Lake, approximate very near to each other. By means of a canal of about twenty-eight miles in length, commencing at the junction of the St. Mary's and St. Joseph's, and terminating at the mouth of Little River on the Wabash, the navigable parts of those two rivers would be connected, and an uninterrupted water communication opened between the cities of New Orleans and New York, with the exception of the rapids before mentioned, in the Wabash, and the rapids situated near the mouth of the Maumee. The obstruction in the Maumee, which may be easily obviated, is situated in the state of Ohio, and must claim the early attention of that state, as it is in contemplation to extend the Dayton canal to a point on the Maumee above the rapids.

It will not for a moment be contended that the resources of this state are as yet equal to the accomplishment of works of equal magnitude with those in New York, Pennsylvania or Ohio; but, including the grant of land made by Congress, the waters of the Wabash and the Maumee can be made to mingle, and the aforementioned obstructions can be removed, at an expense not exceeding the one twentieth of the amount of capital employed in Ohio. May we then not indulge the hope that at some day not far distant, this almost natural channel of communication between the East and the West will be opened, and a great commercial thoroughfare established through the interior of our state; that we may witness with delightful sensations the various products of all countries, securely freighted in vessels floating upon its bosom.

The law of congress, approved, May, 1824, authorising this state to open a Canal through the public lands, to connect the navigation of the river Wabash and the Miami of the Lake, seems to have been predicated upon a belief, that the Indian title to the lands through which the proposed canal would pass, had already been extinguished. It is ascertained however, that the Indian title to a principal part of the lands through which the canal must necessarily pass, has not yet been obtained by the General Government, consequently it is doubted whether this state can, without a violation of the rights of the natives, as acknowledged and recognised by the Federal government, proceed to survey and mark the route of the proposed channel, for the purpose of availing herself of the donation under the provisions of the law of Congress, until these claims are quieted.

From authentic representations by those acquainted with the Indian affairs, it is believed that the Indians are inclined to dispose of their right of soil in that quarter of the state. It is therefore submitted to your consideration, whether a proper representation of this subject ought not to be made to our representatives in congress, accompanied with a request to endeavor to procure an extinguishment of the Indian title to these lands. And should we conclude to accept of the proposition of the General Government, it will be necessary to pass a law, authorizing the survey at as early a day as practicable.

From the prevailing sentiment in favour of internal improvements, manifested by every department of the General Government, I think there is good reason to believe, that if the subject is brought before Congress at their present session, a grant of lands and privileges, much more liberal and beneficial could be obtained for this important purpose, than those contained in the act above mentioned.

The policy of opening a canal at the falls of the Ohio, has for some years, been undergoing the ordeal of public investigation, and it is but reasonable to suppose, that at this time, public opinion is prepared to respond to the question. It is not contended that this canal is of general interest to the state, except as a permanent and productive source of revenue; although a very respectable portion of our citizens are immediately interested in the great facility it would afford them, in the navigation of the Ohio; "but it should be remembered "that a benefit to one part of the state, without an actual deprivation to the other parts, is a benefit to the whole." It is certain that works of this magnitude, should never be undertaken without the approbation of public opinion, for no act of the Legislature can ever be permanent or beneficial, when the settled determinations of the country are arrayed against it. When we consider the large sums which are annually paid for transportation around the falls of the Ohio, the active, extensive, and increasing commerce carried on by means of that mighty river, and the immense value of the water power for machinery, that would be acquired by the construction of the canal, we are forced to appreciate its utility. We cannot refrain from fixing a high estimate upon this particular spot of ground, within our jurisdiction, when we reflect that so small an improvement, will enable us to demand a tribute from the head of navigation on the Ohio, to the mouth of the Mississippi; and when the Ohio canal is completed, we may expect a brisk trade from Canada to Europe; which will sufficiently indicate the importance of the work. Should you be satisfied that the public voice sanctions this project, and that the state of Kentucky will forbear to rear up a ruinous competition, by the completion of a similar work on the other side of the river, you will have but little difficulty in coming to a conclusion favourable to the commencement of this long agitated work. The whole length of the canal will be about three miles, and the expense is estimated at about three hundred thousand dollars; and when the vast amount of property which is annually transported on the Ohio, is taken into consideration, and compared with the amount transported on the New-York canal, it is believed that there will be but few who will withhold their assent to the opinion, that there is no point in the western country, where an equal profit could be derived, from the expenditure of the same amount of capital, provided we could be permitted to enjoy it without competition. To raise the necessary funds for the completion of such works, by a system of taxation, would be impracticable: the people could not sustain the pressure.—Pursuing the course of other states on similar occasions, the money might be raised by loans, and means provided for the regular payment of the accruing interest.

As connected with this subject, I cannot forbear the mention of a warm solicitude which is manifested by the citizens of the eastern part of this state, for the construction of a canal from Lawrenceburgh, on the Ohio, to Fort Wayne. They have already taken steps to procure a survey of the route, and it is understood have received assurances from a most respectable source, that the funds necessary to complete the work, can be procured from some of the eastern cities, so soon as a charter of incorporation sufficiently liberal in its provisions can be procured from the Legislature of this state. As it is understood that this project has no design upon the public purse, and as the completion of the work will be of great and unquestionable utility, it is believed that no objection will be urged against granting a charter, as liberal in its principles as may be consistent with the policy, constitution and laws of the state. Our state pride should incline us to give an impulse to designs of this useful character, so eminently calculated to give us that standing in the Union to which we aspire.

The commissioner appointed by the last General Assembly to examine the obstructions in the two White Rivers, and report the same, together with an estimate of the expense of their removal, to this session, has entered upon that duty, and in due time will lay before you the result of his examinations.

The two White rivers and their tributaries, water a very considerable portion of the state, and at certain seasons of the year, are navigable nearly two hundred miles from their junction with the Wabash. It is believed that these obstructions may be removed, and the navigation rendered comparatively secure, at an expense within the present means of the state; when they will prove valuable auxiliaries to the exporting citizen. This subject ought to claim the undivided attention of the Legislature.

I have said this much on the subject of internal improvements, because it seems to be demanded by the general necessity and spirit of the times. Canals for facilitating the means of commercial intercourse, between distant points, are of acknowledged utility, as a means of giving a new impulse to the agricultural and manufacturing interests of the country, and improving the finances of the state, besides giving life and animation to the whole body politic. But schemes of this kind should not be hastily entered into, merely from a spirit of emulation, or a thirst for ephemeral glory. We should be satisfied that the extent and commercial importance of the navigation to be connected or improved, are sufficient to place beyond doubt the success and public utility of the work. When satisfied on these points, the means of the state may be safely employed. The interest of no community can ever be jeopardised by borrowing money under these circumstances, to expend upon permanent and imperishable works of public utility for the internal improvement of the country, which is a common benefit to all, when it is reduced to a reasonable certainty that the profits arising from such improvements, will annually exceed the interest of the sum expended, and gradually extinguish the principal. It is this policy alone, which will enable us to enjoy in an ample manner, the numerous advantages with which nature has surrounded us.

It has been generally expected that during the present session, the National Road would have been permanently located through Indiana; but circumstances have disappointed our wishes. As this road proceeds towards the setting sun, we feel an increased anxiety that it may be completed as soon as possible through this rising state. Under the influence of these feelings, and with due deference to the wisdom and good motives of Congress, and to the zeal and industry of our own members; allow me respectfully to submit to your consideration, whether a memorial to that body, expressing the hope which we entertain, that respectable annual appropriations will be made out of the national treasury, towards the continuation of that grand turnpike, would not furnish our Delegates in Congress with materials that would enable them to operate successfully in this matter in our behalf, besides having a happy influence upon that interesting question.

By virtue of the compact entered into between this state and the United States, three per cent. on the sales of all public lands within our boundaries, was granted to this state, to be applied, under the direction of our Legislature, to the making of Roads and Canals within the state. At the session of 1821-2, the Legislature passed a law authorizing the location of a number of roads, and appropriated One Hundred Thousand Dollars of the three per cent. fund for opening the same. At that time there was due to the state on that fund upwards of Forty Thousand Dollars, and the law provided for a dividend and expenditure of the residue of the sum appropriated as it may accumulate. It is well worthy of inquiry, whether the large expenditures that have already been made have answered the expectations of the public? Whether large sums have not been paid to numerous commissioners for services that could as well have been rendered by one third of the number employed, and at little more than one third of the expense? Whether a number of the roads opened under the provisions of the law, are not entirely useless to the public, and even suffered to become altogether impassable by a second growth, and neglect to keep them in repair? Whether the whole of the fund can be appropriated for an indefinite period, exclusively to Roads, when Canals are embraced in the compact? If you should think it expedient to continue this law in force any longer, it is respectfully submitted to your consideration whether it would not render the fund more effective, to reduce the number of commissioners, and change the provisions of the law, so as to prohibit a division of the fund amongst the several commissioners until a certain amount had accumulated, and to extend the scale of appropriation to other sections of the state, which have been settled since the passage of the law?

In obedience to the resolutions of the last General Assembly inviting General Lafayette to visit this state, and requesting the Executive and citizens to "receive him with the honors due to the illustrious Guest of the State and Nation," I proceeded, in conjunction with many of our distinguished citizens, to the town of Jeffersonville, where he was welcomed to our soil in such a manner as was thought most consistent with the character and circumstances of the state. The resolutions authorized the Governor to draw on the contingent fund for the payment of the expenses incurred; and the committee of arrangements have reported to me that the whole expense amounted to the sum contained in the accounts and vouchers which are herewith respectfully submitted for your inspection. This reception of the "filial disciple of Washington," and friend of America and rational liberty throughout the world, was, it is hoped, congenial to the wishes and feelings of the General Assembly, and under the joint counsel of many who stand high in public esteem, was conducted with an eye to economy and a decent respect for the character of the state. If it were the object of the resolution to maintain the honour of the government, and barely make a public acknowledgement of our gratitude to a national benefactor, with true and genuine republican simplicity, that end has been accomplished. That I had the honour in conjunction with so many of my fellow citizens to greet the presence of this illustrious veteran in the cause of liberty and our country, and to express to him our unalterable sentiments of gratitude and admiration, will ever be a source of the most grateful recollection.

By the 4th section of the 9th article of the constitution of this state it is made the duty of the General Assembly "as soon as circumstances will permit," "to provide one or more farms to be an Asylum, for those persons who by reason of age, infirmity or other misfortunes, may have a claim upon the aid and beneficence of society on such principles, that such persons may therein find employment and every reasonable comfort, and lose by their usefulness the degrading sense of dependence."

The uniform silence of our legislature on this subject, is sufficient to induce a belief that this benevolent provision has not yet received that consideration to which it is entitled. Few things are better calculated to ensure us that honourable elevation to which our young state aspires, than for the world to witness the representatives of our free population, in the exercise of their high functions, engaged in laying a foundation that will guarantee comfort and happiness to the unfortunate poor. It is the poor and needy that can justly claim more of our deliberations than the affluent, whose wealth sets legislative interposition at defiance. Viewing the construction of an Asylum or Asylums, as institutions, in which the citizens of all the states by some unhappy accident may be doomed to participate; and as there is yet, within our limits immense tracts of waste lands belonging to Congress, we ought not to suppose that an application to that body for a small tract of land to aid this philanthropic design, would be unsuccessful.

The existing law for the support of the poor, though perhaps as good as any that could be devised under the existing system is radically defective in the principles of humanity to the unfortunate, as well as in economy of expenditure. These unhappy objects of public charity are sold like merchandize or cattle in a public market to persons who are generally induced to become their purchasers from motives of gain or avarice, rather than humanity and benevolence, and the public charity thus offered, is often made a curse instead of a blessing. To me this practice seems degrading to our character as a christian people. Instead of lessening the sense of dependence as is contemplated in the humane provision in our constitution, such a mode of relief is calculated to lacerate anew the already wounded sensibility, to increase the sense of degradation, and changes the unfortunate dependent from an object of public charity into a means of private speculation. That this system is defective in point of economy, will at once appear obvious, by referring to the items of expenditure in the several counties in this state which I will endeavour to procure and lay before you. It is submitted to your consideration, whether the spirit of the above provision of the constitution cannot be carried into effect efficiently, by dividing the state into districts of counties, or larger, and making provisions for the establishment of an Asylum in each, where under the care of a single superintendent, made responsible for his conduct, the poor, deaf, dumb and unfortunate of the district may be collected; and those of them, of capability occupied in some useful employment contributory to their subsistence. It is believed that upon this system the poor can be maintained at an expense little exceeding one half of that which is paid by the people under the present system, besides affording abundantly the milk of human kindness.

The first section of the ninth article of the Constitution provides that "the General Assembly shall from time to time pass such laws as shall be calculated to encourage intellectual, scientific and agricultural improvements, by allowing rewards and immunities for the promotion and improvement of arts, sciences, commerce, manufactures and natural history; and to countenance and encourage the principles of humanity, industry and morality." The utility and importance of the measures contemplated by this provision will at once be admitted. The only diversity of opinion will be, as to the means by which they are to be effected. Agriculture and manufactures are of the most immediate importance to the present and future growth of the state: and as these are the pursuits, which from our local situation, must necessarily employ a large proportion of our population; and as these too are the pursuits that mainly contribute to the wealth and prosperity of the state, the passage of a law authorising and encouraging the formation of societies for the purpose of awarding premiums for the best specimens of agricultural production, and domestic manufacture, would if carried into effect, be highly beneficial to the country, by exciting a spirit of industry and improvement.

By the second section of the same article of the constitution it is made the duty of the General Assembly as soon as circumstances will permit, "to provide by law for a general system of education, ascending in a regular gradation from township schools to a state university, wherein tuition shall be gratis and equally open to all." There is no subject more worthy the attention of the representatives of a free people, than that of providing means for the education of all classes of society, rich and poor together, in the same manner and at the same school: Nor is there a more effective method of suppressing vice, and giving countenance to, and encouraging the principles of "humanity, industry, and morality:" nor is there any better method of bringing native genius to light and usefulness. It is one of the first duties of a government, as well as of an individual, to provide the means necessary for their own existence. It has been well said that "knowledge is power" and that "ignorance is the footstool of despotism." Our's especially, is emphatically a government of the people, and its very existence depends upon their virtue and intelligence. A well educated people will always be virtuous. They only want to know their rights, to protect and defend them.

By a grant of Congress, a section of land in each township in this state, has been invested in the inhabitants of such townships for the use of Common Schools; two entire townships have been invested in the Legislature for the use of a State Seminary, and by a provision of our constitution, all fines assessed for a breach of the penal laws, and all commutations for militia services, are appropriated to the use of County Seminaries. The common school lands are estimated at six hundred and eight thousand, two hundred and seven acres, which, at two dollars per acre, would produce a fund of one million two hundred and sixteen thousand four hundred and forty-four dollars. This sum at interest at six per centum per annum, would produce seventy-two thousand nine hundred and eighty-six dollars yearly. There is now forty thousand nine hundred and sixty acres of college lands granted to the state; all of which will show that we are furnished with means. It still remains for the Legislature to improve and increase these several funds, so as to carry this general scheme of education into complete effect. For further and better information on this subject in detail, permit me to refer you to the able and lucid report of a committee raised by a joint resolution of the General Assembly, approved January 9th, 1821, which was made at the ensuing session, and is now on file in the office of the Secretary of State. This report is worthy an attentive examination. I will remark, however, that this report is predicated upon a supposition that the Legislature can legally sell the lands for the use of township schools. Upon this point much doubt and great diversity of opinion exists, and it is believed that upon an attentive examination of the terms of the compact granting the sale of these lands, the right to sell will at least appear questionable, and the reasoning to support that position loose and unsatisfactory, unless the consent of the landholders in each township can be obtained. It may be noticed that section No. 16, in each township is granted to the inhabitants of such township for the use of schools; and they may view it as an incident to their purchase. There can be no doubt as to the right of the Legislature to sell the seminary lands, for they are by the terms of the grant "vested in the Legislature," to be appropriated solely to the use of a Seminary by the Legislature; and the 1st section, 9th article of the constitution wisely intimates the propriety of a sale of these lands after the year 1820. It may well be worth your attention to enquire whether they are not daily diminishing in value under the existing mode of leasing them.

The Seminary at Bloomington, supported in part by one of these townships, is in as flourishing a condition as could have been anticipated. Tuition is comparatively cheap, and no pains are spared to make the institution respectable. It cannot, I think, fail to receive our patronage. It has been suggested, that it would be serviceable to the Seminary, to place it under a directory remote from the place of its location.

The Secretary of State will lay before you the result of the enumeration of the free white male inhabitants of this state, authorized by an act of the last General Assembly, to a conformity with which the rates of representation are at this session to be reduced. In noticing the present strength of the state it may not be uninteresting to take a review of its unparalleled increase for the last twenty-five years. In the year 1800, it is supposed the territory contained 5,000 souls: in 1805, the population is estimated at 11,000; in 1810, at 24,000; in 1815, at 68,789; in 1820, when a census was taken under a law of the United States, at 147,178: in 1825, on a fair computation, at 250,000. Thus we perceive that our increase since 1800, proceeding in geometrical ratio, has amounted almost to a duplication every five years. Calculating upon a multiplication of inducements to settle our domains, and the continued expansion of our territory, by the year 1830 we will appear respectable in the councils of the federal government. To know that at this time we can number forty thousand citizen soldiers, gives us a presentiment of our glorious destiny.

With respect to fixing the ratio of representation, I can do but little more than to say that your own intelligence and knowledge of the people's wishes, will enable you to make the most satisfactory disposition of that difficult question. The ratio upon which the present apportionment was fixed, was as near as possible at one Senator for every eighteen hundred polls, and one representative for every seven hundred. To continue this ratio, would make a considerable addition to your present number, and to increase it so as to avoid an addition of your number, would necessarily lessen the number of Senators and Representatives from particular districts. You will no doubt enter upon the consideration of this question, with a proper regard to the rights of representation, at the same time keeping in view such economy of expenditure as the situation of our finances require.

The agent of the state at this place, will report to you the situation of Indianapolis affairs, by which you will see that a great number of lots, which were sold in the year 1821, are likely to be forfeited to the state.

Sundry resolutions from different states, relative to a resolution of the Ohio Legislature on the subject of slavery, have been received and are herewith submitted: Also, some resolutions relative to the proposition by the Georgia Legislature for an amendment of the constitution of the United States, which are also submitted.

It will probably be necessary, for the purpose of availing ourselves of the benefit of a law of Congress, passed at the last session, extending to the Adjutant, Major and Brigadier Generals of the several states the privilege of franking their communications, to pass a law making it the duty of those officers to make the necessary indorsements upon all letters or packages they may transmit to each other, containing military returns or commissions:

The militia law of this state, in defining the duties of Quartermaster General, has required from him, services equally arduous and more responsible than those of the Adjutant General, without allowing any compensation therefor; the consequence is, that the office will not be accepted.

The Auditor and Treasurer, whose special duty it is to report to you the situation of their several departments, will lay before you the state of the finances. It will be seen that there is considerable diminution in the amount of revenue from the last preceding year, growing out of the act of the last session, lessening the tax on land. The revenue assessed for the present year amounts to forty thousand dollars. From former delinquent lists of almost twelve thousand dollars, it is thought that the treasury will realize three thousand. It may reasonably be calculated from past events, that eight thousand dollars of the above aggregate amount, may be deducted for delinquencies and commissions; leaving for the treasury thirty-five thousand dollars. Of this sum it is believed that about five thousand dollars will be paid in outstanding claims against the state, and held by the collectors.

Thus there may be expected in the treasury on the first day of January, 1826, of available funds, the sum of thirty thousand dollars, to liquidate the demands of the current year. The ordinary expenses for the year, including the civil list and contingencies, will be about twenty-two thousand dollars; leaving eight thousand dollars, which may be appropriated towards sinking the public debt. The public debt is sixteen thousand, nine hundred and twenty dollars, and seventy-three cents, and consists of the following items, to wit: To the United States' assignees of the Vincennes bank, $2,213 36, principal and interest; to the road and canal fund, $6,475 principal and interest; treasury notes in circulation, and interest on the same, $1,580; to the seminary fund, $1,252 37, principal and interest; and to Frederick Rapp, $5,200, principal and interest. It may be presumed that about three thousand dollars of this debt will be demanded during the ensuing year—hence there will be $5,000 left in the treasury, subject to the will of the legislature.

It is your duty to provide the ways and means for the following year. To effect this purpose, the present posture of affairs will enable you to see your way clearly. Almost out of debt, and capable of meeting all the demands that will arise on the treasury during the fiscal year, and with a great increase of resources; it cannot be doubted, that the existing revenue laws will produce an abundance of means for the common purposes of the state.—It is believed that during the next season, there will be upwards of five hundred thousand additional acres of lands subject to assessment, which have heretofore been exempted for five years under the compact. From the unparalleled migration to our soil this year, we cannot well avoid the conclusion, that with vigilance on the part of officers, there will be an addition to the poll list also, including the increase by emigration, of rising seven thousand. Taking this view as correct data, the next assessment will be upwards of fifty thousand dollars, under the operation of the present law. At a period like this, when the farmer finds it difficult to sell his produce for cash, it will not be expected that more revenue will be exacted than is necessary, under the most rigid economy, for present use. If improvements are contemplated

Let us resort to a different state policy to raise the means. As the tax upon lands was moderately lessened last year, I am impressed with a belief, that you may safely diminish the assessment on the head one fourth. "I have chosen this object, because a poll tax seems to be the most odious to the people; being often viewed in no better light than as a remaining badge of British vassalage. For the harmony and good of society, it is equally as necessary that the revenue should be raised to public satisfaction, as that it should be demanded with certainty, and upon principles of equal justice. Knowing from experience, that it is more difficult to get rid of an evil, than to introduce one, it might not be good policy to reduce this tax more than a fourth at present, and so on each year for four years, when it will be dismissed from our statutes. It will be found also, that the principal cause that originally induced it, is ceasing to exist. Many articles of pleasure and luxury might be selected with more propriety, than the heads of freemen. The additional certificates of several clerks of persons unassessed, is an evidence of negligence on the part of assessors, which ought to be remedied. Before I conclude this subject, I must express my regret, that the Auditor has not yet been able to procure all the registers and maps required by the act of the last session. It may be well for the Legislature not to lose sight of such an important addition to the revenue system.

You have recently had occasion to learn that there is an alarming defalcation some where, in the discharge of a most important constitutional, legal and moral duty. It seems that there are eleven counties in this state from which no returns for Governor and Lieutenant Governor have been received. It is of no avail to impose heavy penalties on Clerks, to induce them to put a single return into a post office, whilst post masters, through whose hands these returns pass, are subject to no penalty whatsoever. It will be vanity to labour to preserve the freedom and purity of elections too, if such scenes as we have just witnessed are suffered to pass unnoticed. A law requiring the clerk in each county to transmit to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and President of the Senate, duplicate returns by some special messenger, for whose integrity he should be responsible, (but not for unavoidable accidents,) and also one by mail, might prove more effective in always securing to the people the person of their choice.

Having detained you long enough, suffer me to conclude by reserving to myself the privilege of communicating to you in separate messages, the situation of the Penitentiary affairs, and some other matters of interest.

If my assistance and cordial co-operation, in any good measure will have the effect of facilitating your deliberations in the discharge of your high prerogative, and of bringing the session to a close as soon as practicable, I beg you, at all times, to command my services.

act relative to county boundaries," approved January 31st, 1824; which was read the first time and passed to a second reading to-morrow.

Mr. Speaker,

The under-signed, one of the select committee to whom was referred the petition of Joseph Hanna and others, praying that a part of Franklin county may be attached to Union county, begs leave, as the minority of that committee, to report that it is inexpedient to grant the prayer of the petitioners for the following reasons, to wit:

1st. That the territory named will, if united with Union county, reduce the said county below the constitutional size.

2d. There is a respectable number of men residing within the limits of that part of Franklin proposed to be attached to Union who have not signed the petition.

3d. That the county of Franklin at the time when Fayette and Union were formed out of a part of her territory, was largely indebted, which debt had accrued for public buildings, a part of which is still due and unpaid; and to reduce her further will impose a greater burden on the good people of Franklin county, by curtailing her means of reducing her debt, circumscribed and lessened in her bounds; and the good people within the bounds of the county prayed for are not, as the undersigned verily believes, laboring under the disadvantages complained of, but that it has been introduced in the petition only to amuse the people.

5th. That all alterations in the boundaries of counties, in the humble opinion of the undersigned, should be made to meet the wishes of a majority of all the people in the county interested in such change, and not to gratify the whims of a few who may become restless.

6th. That the seat of justice of Franklin county is nearer the east line than the west, and by striking from the northern boundary the territory prayed for would give rise to a contention about the seat of justice, the said county being now much longer from east to west than it is from north to south.

JOHN REED.

Mr. Beckes from the select committee to whom was referred that part of the Governor's message which re lates to asylums for the poor, submitted the following report, to wit:

Mr. Speaker,

The committee to whom was referred as much of the Governor's message as recommends the establishment of public asylums for the the support of the poor, report:—

That they have attentively examined the subject submitted by the House to their consideration. The committee are perfectly aware that to secure suitable provision for the poor, is a point in legislation carefully attended to in every civilized and christian country.— We see a pledge to this effect in the protecting principle upon which governments are based. But the laws for this, as for other purposes of social life, must be adapted to the situation and circumstances of the community for which they are intended. In countries overflowing with inhabitants, and where from a variety of causes, great inequalities as to riches and rank in society unfortunately prevail, and paupers consequently become exceedingly numerous; there it is that work houses, hospitals, asylums, poor houses, and many other public institutions of a similar character, have been considered proper and useful for the wretched victims of penury and affliction. The state of Indiana, however, is by no means a country of this description. On the contrary, it is just in the vigor of youth, its population is not at present, nor will it be for many years to come, inconveniently crowded; the means of subsistence are abundant and easily obtained. The pride of our grown wealth in a few, its invidious distinctions, and the consequent distress and poverty of the many, are as yet unknown. Comparatively speaking, we can scarcely be said to have any paupers. The proportion is less than one to a thousand of our population. It is true, the smallness of the number does not affect the principle, that each is sacredly bound to contribute his share to the welfare of all, but it proves the impolicy of incurring the expense of erecting and supporting extensive and numerous public establishments for the accomplishment of an object so limited in extent, and so easily and perfectly attainable without them. Our present system of poor laws has been in operation since the commencement of the government, and is found upon experience, wisely adapted to the situation of our country. The few paupers we have, are comfortably supported, in a prudent and economical manner, in different places and by respectable people. Were they collected together in poor houses, their maintenance would be more expensive, their situation more degraded, and their poverty more exposed and humiliating. Settled, as under our statute laws they now are, in different parts of the several counties, these poor people become, as it were, members of the respective families of their more fortunate fellow-citizens with whom they reside; and their afflictions are alleviated, and in a considerable degree forgotten, amidst the comforts and conveniences by which they are surrounded.

The committee, therefore, are unanimously of opinion, that the establishment of asylums in the different counties or other districts of the state, for the support of paupers, as recommended in the Governor's message, would not at present be expedient.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Which being read was concurred in by the House.

And on motion,

Said committee were discharged from the further consideration thereof.

Mr. Hawk submitted the following report for the consideration of the House, to wit:

Mr. Speaker,

The committee to whom was referred the petition of sundry citizens of Madison county, preferring charges against Moses Cox clerk of said county, and praying an impeachment against him, have had the same under consideration, and are of opinion, that the charges exhibited in said petition are of too general a character to found articles of impeachment thereon, and your committee pray to be discharged.

Which being read was concurred in by the House.

And on motion,

Said committee were discharged from the further consideration thereof.

Mr. Hannab, from the select committee to whom was referred the petition of Asa M. Sherman and others, of Wayne county, reported a bill to authorize Jacob Caylor to dig a mill race through part of the south east quarter of section 16, township 16, range 12; which was read the first time and passed to a second reading to-morrow.

Mr. Rose from the select committee to whom was referred the petition of H. C. Hammond and others, of Union county, reported a bill to improve the navigation of the east fork of Whitewater, which was read the first time, and passed to a second reading to-morrow.

Mr. Child submitted the following report for the consideration of the House, to wit:

Mr. Speaker,

Mr. Richardson, after having obtained leave, presented a bill to repeal part of the 80th section of the act, relative to crimes and punishments; which was read the first time and passed to a second reading to-morrow.

Mr. Child moved that this House adhere to their amendment made to the amendment of the Senate to the engrossed bill from this House entitled An act providing for contesting the election of Governor and Lieutenant Governor, and the ayes and noes being demanded by two members, are as follows, to wit:

Those who voted in the affirmative are,

Messrs. Baird, Beckes, Blair, Child, Claypool, Gray, Johnson, Lemon, Lewis of Franklin, Lewis of Wayne, Lomax, Palmer, Pepper, Reed, Richardson, Rose, Sweetser and Worth—18.

And those who voted in the negative are,

So the House refused to adhere to said amendment.

On motion of Mr. Clendenin,

The House re-considered their vote insisting on their amendment to said bill.

Mr. Clendenin then moved, that this House recede from their amendment, to the amendment made by the Senate, to said bill, and the ayes and noes being called for by two members, are as follows, to wit:

Those who voted in the affirmative are,

Messrs. Boon, Burnett, Clendenin, Craig, Daniel, Fitzgerald, Gard, Guion, Hannah, Hillis, Howk, Keen, Ketcham, Moffatt, Paddacks, Paxton, Posey, Riley, Robertson, Sims, Stanford, Stewart, Walker, Wallace, Williams and Evans, speaker—26.

Messrs. Baird, Beckes, Blair, Child, Claypool, Gray, Jackson, Johnson, Lemon, Lewis of Franklin, Lewis of Wayne, Lomax, Palmer, Pepper, Reed, Richardson, Rose, Sweetser and Worth—19.

So the House receded from said amendment.

Ordered, That the clerk inform the Senate thereof.

In the name of myself, and on behalf of the citizens of Franklin county, I do solemnly protest against the passage of the bill attaching a part of the county of Franklin, to Union and Fayette, for the following reasons, to wit:

First. Because the constitution expressly says, that no old county shall be reduced to a less number than four hundred square miles, and that the bounds of Franklin, or that part which was established at or before the adoption of the consti-tion, does not exceed three hundred and fifty square miles; consequently no subsequent legislature can attach territory with a view of taking from the old at the next or any succeeding legislature, without violating that article. That the representation of Franklin, Fayette and Union, did in the year 1820 or 21, contrary to the wishes of their constituents, attach some territory to the southern and western lines of the former, which in the opinion of the undersigned, should not have been taken into consideration by the committee. The part which has been attached since the adoption of the constitution, can be taken from Franklin; but the old bounds must remain as large as the constitution contemplates.

Second. That the petitioners from that part of Franklin who wish to be added to Union, only includes twelve miles; the bill which has passed, gives to Union twenty-four; and the petitioners from that part of Franklin who are desirous of being added to Fayette, only embraces two miles; the bill adds six. At least one hundred or one hundred and fifty polls have been attached to those two counties, contrary to their wishes, and also their representatives; and who have actually remonstrated against it. And in the opinion of the undersigned, it is unconstitutional, unprecedented, and unheard of in legislative proceedings.

The Speaker laid before the House the following communication from B. J. Blythe, agent of the state for the town of Indianapolis, to wit:

AGENT'S OFFICE, }
JANUARY 5th, 1826. }

The Hon. the Speaker of the House of Representatives,

SIR—My duty, together with some severe remarks on my conduct with regard to the course I have pursued in leasing the squares on Pogue's run, (which a bill now before the House of Representatives proposes to vacate and order into market.) compels me to lay before this House the situation of those squares, and to ask a committee to examine into my conduct. I cannot rest easy under the censure of any member of your House, when I am conscious my conduct has been upright.

In 1821, six lots in square 80 were sold, on which one payment only has been made. In February, 1823, Wilkes Reagan leased seven lots in square 80: about the same time Daniel Yandes leased seven lots in the same square. In August, 1824, Morris Morris leased eight lots in square 85: shortly after, Thomas Carter seven in square 84. In May, 1825, I leased to Wilkes Reagan four lots in square 80. In November, 1825, nine lots in square 84 to James Dugan. In December, 1825, fifteen lots in square 85 to Henderson and Blake.

As your Agent, I thought it not for the advantage of the state to dispose of those squares; as such, I said so. I have no interest apart from that of the state. There is no land belonging to this commonwealth that is increasing in value so fast; it lies contiguous to that part of the town which has and must continue to improve rapidly; in addition to which, Ponge's run is a never failing stream and passes through said squares.

It is believed it would conduce to the health of the town to have this ground cleared off: the persons who have leased are bound to clear the timber off in four months from the date of their leases; they are afterwards entitled to three month's notice previous to a surrender. Will it not be more to the interest of the state to compel those lessees to clear off the ground, than to sell it and compel the purchasers to do so, within a fixed period, when the timber now on the ground would fall far short of paying for that labour?

Respectfully submitted,

B. J. BLYTHE, Agent
for Indianapolis.

On motion of Mr. Palmer,

Resolved, That a select committee be appointed in pursuance of the request in said communication.

Which Mr. Speaker decided to be out of order, inasmuch as the amendment proposed could not be considered as an amendment, but was in fact a substitute for the amendment made by the Senate, and therefore inadmissible at this stage of the bill.

From which decision of the chair Messrs. Palmer, Gray and Sweetser appealed to the House.

2 o'clock, P. M.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Mr. Stanford moved to amend the second section of the amendment of the Senate by striking off one member each from the counties of Wayne, Dearborn, Clark, Harrison and Washington; and debate arising thereon,

Mr. Lewis of Wayne called for the previous question: and being demanded by three members it was taken in the form prescribed by the rules and orders of the House, to wit:

Shall the main question be now put? and passed in the affirmative: the main question was then put, to wit:

Will the House concur in the amendments proposed by the Senate to said bill? it was decided in the negative: and the ayes and noes being required by Messrs. Child and Lewis of Wayne, are as follows, to wit:

Those who voted in the affirmative are,

Messrs. Clendenin, Daniel, Fitzgerald, Johnson, Moffatt, Paxton, Richardson, Sims, Stanford, Stewart, Walker and Evans, speaker—12.

The select committee to whom was referred the communication of William W. Wick, Secretary of State, to Benjamin V. Beckes, a member of this House, have had the same under their consideration, and have directed me to report, that amongst the several items which Mr. Wick classes in his list of extra services, your committee is of opinion that that of copying and forwarding to members of Congress, &c. and forwarding circuit court and road acts, are duties which properly belong to the office of secretary of state. That the making of the index and marginal notes, copying and superintending the printing, are extra services for which a reasonable compensation should be paid; but your committee are of opinion that the amount received by the secretary of state last year for that service, to wit: $140 was extravagant; your committee are further of opinion that although the spirit and language of Mr. Wick's communication, are somewhat exceptionable, yet, being satisfied that no impropriety was intended, but that the communication was originally designed as a familiar and common place address to a friend, your committee cannot attach to Mr. Wick more than a little imprudence with regard to said communication.

The Speaker having called Mr. Pepper to the chair,

On motion of Mr. Posey,

Resolved unanimously by the House of Representatives of the state of Indiana, That the thanks of this House, be given to the Hon. Robert M. Evans, Speaker thereof, for the dignity, ability and impartiality, with which he discharged the duties of that station, during the present session.

The Senate came down into the Hall of the House of Representatives, and took their seats on the right of the Speaker's chair.

The Reverend Mr. Bush came in, attended by the committee appointed to wait upon him for that purpose, and proceeded to close the session by solemn prayer, and thanksgiving to Almighty God.

Mr. Beckes then moved, that this House do now adjourn sine die—Upon which,

The Speaker rose from his chair, and addressed the House as follows:

Gentlemen of the House of Representatives:

The friendly and complimentary manner in which you have been pleased to notice my services as your presiding officer on the present occasion, is, to me, the most flattering occurrence of my life; and I hope that you, gentlemen, will be pleased to accept in turn my sincere thanks for the orderly and decorous manner in which you have conducted yourselves as a body collectively, and for the friendly, indulgent, and respectful manner in which I have been treated by each member of this honourable body individually. Indeed, gentlemen, it is with much pleasure and pride of feeling I can say that I have never before witnessed, at any session of the Legislature, more friendship, indulgence and respect, manifested towards the Speaker, by the members collectively and individually, than there has been on the present occasion. This consideration, gentlemen, is doubly flattering to me when I reflect that I was raised to the station which I now occupy through your partiality—unexpectedly, unsought for, and unwished for on my part.

We are now, gentlemen, about to retire from our labours, and return to the bosoms of our families and friends, and I fondly hope that we will carry with us, and forever retain, those feelings of friendship and regard for each other which have so happily prevailed throughout the present session. Rest assured, gentleman, that for my own part I shall carry with me and retain sentiments of sincere friendship and regard for each of you individually, which can only be effaced by the all-devouring hand of time.

The question was then put, Shall this House adjourn sine die? and it was carried in the affirmative.

The Speaker then adjourned the House sine die.

ATTEST,

HENRY P. THORNTON, Clerk,

Of the House of Representatives.
